

Australian Leadership Awards – Scholarships

2008 Referee report

The applicant has named you as a referee in support of an application for an Australian Leadership Award Scholarship supported by the Australian Government for study in Australia. To assist in the selection process, we would like to receive your views on the applicant's suitability for an award, in particular your opinion of his or her leadership qualities, academic potential and, where appropriate, research ability or promise.

When you have completed the referee report, please return it to the applicant for inclusion with his or her application submission.

The closing date for submitting applications and all supporting documents as hard copy is 16 July 2007. The closing date for submitting applications online via the ALA Scholarships website is 31 July 2007.

Please expand briefly on your evaluations above and provide reasons why, in your opinion, the applicant should be considered for an Australian Leadership Awards Scholarship (maximum 500 words).

Successful applicants for these prestigious awards are expected to be exceptional people who have the potential to become leaders in their field or community. It is envisaged that they will make a significant contribution to their country when they return home.

It is my pleasure to provide this letter of reference for my former student I Made Andi Arsana, for the Australian Leadership Awards – Scholarships scheme. It is obvious from Andi's CV that he is truly an excellent and conscientious researcher. The Masters thesis he completed with me in 2006 was of very high quality. In fact only the condition of his AusAid scholarship prevented him from progressing to a PhD. Andi is not only intellectually exceptional, but his resourcefulness and motivtaion are very impressive. In addition to having to adapt to a new culture when he arrived in Australia, he had to master a complex new software system, procure digital data (for the sensitive Indonesian and East Timor maritime boundaries), and make friends here at the university. He was a model student and integrated very well into our department.

Andi is no doubt a "rising star" in Indonesia, for despite his relatively low academic rank, his work has attracted a lot of attention. His research topic was very relevant for an archipelagic state such as Indonesia, as well as Australia, Indonesia's maritime neighbour. Atypical for academics, he also wrote several English language articles in Indonesian newspapers, and has therefore come to the attention of senior bureacrats in his country. These articles were reasoned discussions of the issues confronting Indonesia as it proceeds with negotiations on boundaries with its neighbours. Andi is destined to be a leader, and not just in the academic sense. If given the chance to further his studies I believe he would make significant contributions to the field of maritime boundary definition/delineaion both nationally and internationally. I unreservedly support his application for an ALA Scholarship to study for a PhD. Please comment on the benefits of the study/research course to the applicant, his/her field of study and home country (maximum 500 words).

Andi's Masters research topic was very relevant for an archipelagic state such as Indonesia, as well as Australia, Indonesia's maritime neighbour. For Indonesia the definition of national maritime boundaries with all of its neighbours (Australia, East Timor, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore, Brunei, Papua New Guinea) is of crucial importance in ensuring that it fulfills its obligations as an archipelagic state under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS). These obligations include sustainable management of the resources of the sea column and seabed. In return, Indonesia will be able to exploit its rich maritime resources to the fullest extent. Furthermore, agreed-to maritime (and land) boundaries contribute to national security and political stability within a nation, especially one as geographically and culturally diverse as Indonesia. If given the chance to further his studies I believe Andi would make significant contributions to the field of maritime boundary definition, and hence assist his home country Indonesia in better managing its fishing and offshore mineral and petroleum resources.
